Experience authentic Southern culture as you journey through living history along the Lower Mississippi River where it is easy to imagine that time has stood still. In the late 1800's Mark Twain noted on his adventures down the mighty Mississippi that there were so many plantations and dwellings along the river that it looked like a spacious street. Towering homes lay nestled in large patches of moss-draped oak trees and still today, you can catch a glimpse of what Mark Twain once saw as you cruise along the River and then tour the historic locations and iconic plantation homes.
