A-ROSA River Cruises

From its source in Burgundy, the French river Seine flows through Paris and the province of Normandy before emptying into the English Channel at Le Havre.

Departing from Paris, A-ROSA's itineraries ensure that guests have ample of time to visit the city's major attractions such as Louvre, Notre Dame and Eiffel Tower. With close to 50 annual sailings and an unparalleled selection of 4, 5, 7 or 9-night itineraries to select from, cruisers are spoiled for choice.

Between Paris and Rouen lies beautiful Vernon with many of its timber-framed houses dating back to the Middle Ages. Close by is Giverny with its famous gardens, immortalised by the impressionist painter Claude Monet who lived in the village.

Built in the late 12th century by Richard the Lionheart, the Château-Gaillard Castle towers over the town of Andelys, another A-ROSA port of call along the Seine.

Settled in the 10th century when Vikings became Normans, Rouen is Normandy's capital. Most of A-ROSA's cruises stay overnight in this medieval city, allowing guests to explore its abundant historic sites in detail. Not to be missed is the tower where the patron saint of France, Joan of Arc was imprisoned before she was burned at the stake.

Le Havre is located where the Seine meets the English Channel. Destroyed in WWII, the city was rebuilt in the striking architectural style of modernism.
